

There's Old Bands, There's New Bands and There's IDYLLIC . . .

Idyllic are fronted by Niall Doolan with Joe Keech on drums, Josh Peters on bass and Ben Rogers and Megan Lee on guitars.

Formed in Liverpool in 2022, Idyllic have played over 50 live shows and have released two singles which are available on Spotify and Apple Music.

The sound of Idyllic has its influences in Rock 'n' Roll, Northern Soul, Reggae and Post-Punk.

As they continue to develop their live performance, Idyllic's next step is to develop a management and label relationship required to get them to the next stage.

The band has recently co-produced an EP with producer Tony Long at Big City Jacks Studio in Bury. Tony worked with the band to capture the Idyllic sound, recording 5 tracks over six-days.

A new track "Big City Blues" was also written during those sessions and has become a firm favourite in the live set.

The first single from the forthcoming EP, "405 Line" will be out on all platforms on November 10th, accompanied by a video from the emerging filmmaker Gabriel Taylor Wrigley.

Why not join the Idyllic community on their journey by following them on all socials and streaming outlets, catch them live and help spread the word . . .
